

It depends. Proponents of globalization will point to the dramatic decline in poverty that has taken place throughout the world over the past several decades, which many economists attribute in part to increased trade and investment between nations. Globalization can also have negative environmental impacts due to economic development, industrialization, and international travel.