In August 1910, Florence Nightingale fell ill but seemed to recover and was reportedly in good spirits.A week later, on the evening of Friday, August 12, 1910, she developed an array of troubling symptoms.She died unexpectedly at 2 p.m. the following day, Saturday, August 13, .1910, at her home in London