

This paper examines the role of the organizational structure in process-based organizations. Organizational units are organized around core processes