

Once upon a time, there was a young girl named Emily who loved playing in the sandbox with her friends at recess. Emily tearfully told him about the bullying and how much it was affecting her. The teacher spoke to the kids who were bullying Emily and explained how their behavior was harmful and unacceptable. She was always happy and carefree, until one day, a group of older kids began to tease her. Max was shocked and angry and immediately went to their teacher to report the bullying.
