

Biotechnology is expected to make incredible advances in medicine, developing personalized treatments for incurable diseases, extending healthy lifespans, and perhaps even achieving immortality