

This animal is of great interest because of its hybridity. They only placed them in reserves such as the Prince Mohammed bin Salman Reserve, which provided the appropriate environment for them. Of course, it is at risk of extinction by 26% because poachers hunt it to benefit from its skin and tusks for decoration, but in Saudi Arabia the matter is different