

This research examines how poetic imagery and structural techniques present the land as a source of
.memory and healing in Native American poetry