

In addition to these general properties, the material selected for a definite application must possess specific qualities suitable for the purpose