In addition to these general properties, the material selec	ted for a definite application must possess specific qualities suitable for the purpose