

Summarized Problems and Need for Cloud: Dependence on the internet: Cloud computing relies heavily on internet connectivity, so any issues or disruptions with the internet can prevent users from accessing their data or applications, which can be particularly problematic for critical applications. Common challenges in traditional computing include limited storage capacity, scalability issues, and security concerns.