

Those workers who had the improved working conditions taken away continued to show improved productivity