

A good citizen contributes positively to their community by demonstrating care, empathy, and active participation. They embody qualities such as kindness, responsibility, and altruism