

Artificial Intelligence or Artificial Intelligence is the behavior and specific characteristics of computer programs, which make them mimic human mental capabilities and modes of operation