

Policies and Procedures Every company has its own rules, which are normally written either in the employee handbook or a policies and procedures guide book. Many companies will have yearly departmental meetings, to go over any changes in these guidelines