

business ethics has three levels which are individual, organizational and macro.ethics is defined as a .systematic reflection on behavior's that are in line with social norms and values