

The online fake accounts market is considered one of the most popular markets recently on the Internet, as it allows the user to impersonate any person he wants to communicate with the other world using a fake account. Despite all the measures taken to reduce this phenomenon, its spread is expanding further with the failure to deal with the fabricators of these accounts and the absence of strict measures against them. Some platforms also create an account with a fake name and later sell it to another person after gathering a large number of followers