

Khaled, a project manager, discovers an error in a financial report created by his team member, Salman. The error, although unintentional, could potentially mislead their client. Correcting it poses a dilemma, as it could delay the project and potentially damage the team's reputation