

Borrowing in Linguistics: A Brief Overview Borrowing in linguistics refers to the process by which a language adopts words, phrases, or grammatical structures from another language. Factors Influencing Borrowing Historical Contact: Languages often borrow from each other due to historical interactions, such as colonization, trade, or cultural exchange. Examples of Borrowing English: English has borrowed .words from numerous languages, including Latin, French, Greek, and countless others