

To conclude, Poor countries' Government should encourage their professional people not to shift to .another country by giving them the expected lifestyle and it will be useful for the country's growth as well