

Influence of Artificial intelligence for the labor market There are less optimistic forecasts and a lot of uncertainty related to the use of Artificial Intelligence (AI) technology in business, which Human Resources (HR) departments must take into account when managing personnel, especially when planning and selecting training, so it is matched to the AI solutions used in the company