The aging population in most industrialized countries, including Germany, and the high life expectancy associated with demographic changes are causing significant health and social care problems.In 2050, about 23 million people over the age of 65 will be living in Germany and the proportion of people being 80 years or older will have grown by 8% to 13%

lakhasly.com © تم تلخيص النص بواسطة موقع لخصلي