

After cases stabilized in China, it began sending aid to other countries. Businessman Jack Ma sent 1.1 million test kits, 6 million face masks and 60,000 protective suits to Addis Ababa in Ethiopia for distribution by the African Union. He later sent 5,000 test kits, 100,000 face masks and 5 ventilators to Panama.