

There are many valid reasons why people should avoid fast food. It's often high in unhealthy fats, sugars, and sodium, which can lead to weight gain, high blood pressure, and heart disease over time. Opting for healthier meal choices can support long-term well-being.