

King Laoius, King of Thebes, had a nightmare and asked for a fortune teller. Then a shepherd took him and took him to the city of Polbis and decided to raise him. Oedipus was sad and left the city and traveled. They quarreled, and Oedipus killed the old man. Iraq told him: You are going to get a son who will kill his father and marry his mother. Then he grew up and went on a trip and saw a fortune teller and said to him: You are going to kill your father and marry your mother. Then he arrived in Thebes and saw a monster and killed him. After that, he became the king of Thebes and married the queen and had children with her.
