

Sure! IPC refers to the mechanisms and techniques used by processes or programs to communicate with each other. It allows processes to exchange data, synchronize their actions, and coordinate their activities. I'd be happy to explain the concept of Inter-Process Communications (IPC) using the figure you provided.