

- o Psychological effects of war depend on the age, sex, personality, and previous experiences of the child and on the child's culture