

Petunia plants are characterized by a short life cycle, color diversity, compact plant size, and relatively easy growth. It has been reported that flowering capacity of petunia plants can be influenced by breeding and cultivation technologies.