

IV. These agents may be broadly classified into two groups: 1) choline esters, which include endogenous ACh and synthetic esters of choline, such as carbachol and bethanechol 2) naturally occurring alkaloids, such as nicotine and pilocarpine