

The seller sells a product for which there are no close substitutes; 3. There are barriers to entry that. 1 prevent competitors from entering the market; 4. The market consists of a single seller; 2. The seller can control the price of his or her product