

Question 2: Discuss the role of government support and external investment in the transformation of Al Hadath from a traditional village to a thriving hub of commerce and innovation. This diversification of the economy reduced reliance on traditional agricultural practices and created a more resilient economic base. The government's proactive policies, such as tax incentives and regulatory reforms, created a favorable environment for businesses to flourish.