

Concerned with promoting and selling products or services and meeting customer needs. Marketing activities include advertising, distribution, pricing, and market research