

A person who is aware of his duties and rights in his society is a good citizen. He knows that the labor and work of countless persons have improved his life. You have to accept the conditions and traditions that a society suggests for its members. These conditions and standards of behavior are for the common good and welfare of the society and individuals.