Oman's Asyad Group launches Muscat Airport Free Zone tender The private sector has been invited to shape the future of global logistics in Oman Asyad Group, Oman's leading logistics provider, has officially announced the tender process for the initial phase of the Muscat International Airport Free Zone, signalling a significant step forward in the country's logistics and economic development.It is a strategic part of Asyad's vision for an interconnected logistics ecosystem that seamlessly enhances Oman's role in global supply chains, integrating land crossings, seaports, and economic zones.The scope of the infrastructure development includes comprehensive site preparations, essential for laying the foundation of a logistics hub that will facilitate air freight and supply chain efficiencies across global markets.Positioned as a key element within Oman's comprehensive logistics framework, the Muscat International Airport Free Zone aims to elevate air freight access and logistics operations.By providing unmatched commercial and tax incentives, the free zone affirms Oman's status as a global logistics hub .and an attractive destination for foreign direct investments

lakhasly.com © تم تلخيص النص بواسطة موقع لخصلي