

Illiteracy is a problem in many of the world's poorest countries. But in 19 cities across the country (United States), the volunteers of Experience Corps are helping youngsters learn to read