

Gender equality in the workplace is increasingly recognized as essential for fostering inclusive and productive environments. These findings underscore the importance of fostering gender equality in organizations, not only as a matter of fairness but also as a strategic advantage in promoting workplace satisfaction, efficiency, and overall performance. Bobbitt-Zeher (2011) highlights that gender-diverse companies tend to enjoy higher levels of employee satisfaction.