

Discount or "loyalty" cards let retailers identify all the purchases that each individual customer makes.
.This personal data is far more valuable than the cash value of the discount