

Imagine walking into a busy mall and seeing a welcoming booth labeled "Free Health Screening." That's our idea: to bring health awareness where people already are. We will partner with the Ministry of Health and work with healthcare professionals to provide free blood pressure and blood sugar checks. Students like us will help guide people through the process and hand out educational material. These booths won't just offer a service – they'll start conversations, reduce stigma, and possibly save lives. Our idea is practical, achievable, and impactful. And the best part? We already have the people and places to make it happen.
