

deductive approaches: Effectiveness of Community Health Education Programs in Preventing Chronic Diseases: The study would involve implementing such programs in selected communities and measuring changes in health outcomes over time. Analysis of the Impact of Continuing Medical Education (CME) Programs on Healthcare Provider Knowledge and Practice: It aims to identify gaps in current CME initiatives and recommend strategies for improvement based on the changes observed in provider knowledge and practice.