

The Yagi antenna is also called the Yagi–Uda antenna. It was made by Japanese scientists Hidetsugu Yagi and Shintaro Uda in the 1920s. People often use this antenna to make TV signals better and for talking on ham radios. It is a type of antenna which is used to catch TV signals and radio waves.