

The most basic element in the formula of a detective story is the hero—the detective. He is usually a courageous individual with superior intelligence. In contrast, the hero in detective comedies is a naive and clumsy character who accidentally stumbles across clues to eventually solve the crime