refers to a computer–based system that provides managers with the tools to organize, evaluate and efficiently manage departments within an organization.