

Laches' objections and he supports his reasons by his answers .The artisan, the husbandman know what to fear and what not to fear in their respective arts; and yet, this does not make them courageous. So, a courageous man knows all good and evil and knows how to deal with it, and consequently lacks no virtue