

Russia is a multinational and multi-confessional country with a huge territory, diverse geographical, climatic and economic conditions of production and life of the population. The statehood of Russia has been continuously and successively developing since 862 for twelve centuries