

Another two animals that team up to compensate for their own weaknesses are the zebra and the ostrich) These two animals often travel together