

Social law rules are considered mixed: because they combine legal and customary characteristics and .affect multiple areas of social life