

Perhaps the most promising area for integration is between GIS and image analysis. Georeferenced satellite images are like DOQs, useful for displaying with other spatial features such as business locations, roads, stands, and parcels