

The study was performed prospectively. The computer program randomly decided a patient's allocation into one of the groups. Group selection was done completely randomly by computer assignment