

Dear Mario, I'm a limo driver, and people leave all kinds of things in my limousine– scarves, packages, and even shoes. Last Saturday night I picked up this wealthy man at his hotel and drove him to a prestigious charity awards ceremony. He told me that it was a valuable family heirloom, given to him by his grandfather, and he went on to praise my honesty. The man must have been a millionaire, judging by the way he was dressed. The next day, when I was cleaning the inside of the car, I noticed something !shining. I should have kept the watch. Ten bucks
