

The project delivered hands-on experience regarding network construction together with routing protocol management. OSPF proved itself to be the most advanced and scalable routing solution. The static routing approach gives complete control but does not provide flexibility