

This abstract succinctly captures the key findings and significance of your study, highlighting the synthesis, characterization, DNA interaction, and potential anticancer efficacy of the compounds. Collectively, compounds 11–23 show promise for further development as effective treatments for cancer.